Supreme Court to review Defense of Marriage Act

Columbus—Ian James, FreedomOhio co-founder, applauded the U.S. Supreme Court for deciding to review the constitutionality of the federal so-called Defense of Marriage Act.

“We are confident the U.S. Supreme Court will look at the federal law and rule the true defense of marriage is to let a loving couple commit to a lifetime of love and family security,” James said. “Still, we are mindful that this case does nothing to overturn Ohio’s DOMA law or Ohio’s 2004 Marriage Ban Amendment so we will continue to collect signatures, and engage voters so Ohio couples will have the Freedom To Marry.”

The U.S. Supreme

Court will also hear a case filed to reverse the U.S. Court of Appeals (Ninth Circuit) decision to overturn California’s Proposition 8 that clears the way for same-gender marriages in The Golden State. The Ninth Circuit ruling, left alone, would have cleared a procedural hurdle to once again allow same gender couples to marry in California.

“The U.S. Supreme Court has a golden opportunity to affirm marriage equality, civil rights and family security in California,” James said. “We are confident we are on the right side of history. The court will rule by June, about the time we will decide whether to

The club currently has two levels, a third is planned to open next summer.

Jonnie Stephenson Holiday Party is December 16th

The 7th Annual Jonnie Stephenson Foundation Holiday Party will be held on December 16th at 4 p.m., hosted by his former partner Marty Karp at Simon Says Bar, 428 Walnut Street.

There will be complimentary refreshments and once again prizes valued at more than $1,000.00 will be raffled off throughout the evening.

For every unwrapped new toy one brings, a raffle ticket will be given to him or her by our “Naughty Santa”.

What better way to share this season than by helping a local needy child open a gift this holiday.

In the name of the Jonnie Stephenson Foundation Teddy Bears will be donated to On Broadway Bar, 877 Broadway.

Stop by to On Broadway and bring a Teddy Bear in the name of the Jonnie

Stephenson Foundation.

Once again, The Jonnie Stephenson Foundation wishes everyone a Happy and Healthy Holiday.

Happy Holidays!!

Welcome to the LGBT Blue State

As the results of the 2012 Presidential Election are dissected, it is clear that the LGBT vote is a power player in the Obama Coalition. The New York Times on 11/15/12 ran the best analysis to date.

Exit polls indicate five percent of the electorate self identified being LGBT. If about 120 million votes were cast, six million are us!

This is as many votes combined for Ohio and Hawaii. We are talking about 18 electoral votes! LGBT voters went 76 percent for Obama. 7.5 percent of the winning Coalition is from this community. This is 4.5 million vote. Obama had to carry Ohio and Virginia to get that many votes.

Real politic 101
By Tedd Good

Here the Electoral College impact is 31.

While this large number is spread throughout the 50 states. NYT reported that LGBT support was crucial in carrying Ohio and Florida. That is a direct impact of 47 electoral votes on Obama's victory of 332 in the Electoral College. National analysts considered that it was crucial for Obama to carry Hamilton County to carry Ohio.

We helped make this happen. For the long embattled LGBT community in Greater Cincinnati, the win has become a part of an awesome history. We have moved more than 31 years from irrelevance to victory, defeat and Renaissance.

The environment has become more complicated. Our equality is only as secure as the coalition that we are a part of. We have to take stands on issues beyond narrow interests.

Electoral reform, legislative procedure reform, fiscal policy, health care and entitlements demand our attention and input. With new power comes greater responsibility.

Happy Holidays ISQCCBE

Happy Holidays from the ISQCCBE! We are having a tremendous month of fundraising for our ISQCCBE (The Court) By Brooklyn charities. Steele-Tate Here are the events

December 1 was World AIDS Day and we hosted a benefit at Below Zero for Caracole House. It was full of drag, belly dancers and music.

On December 7 we were at Old Street to kickoff the Everlasting Flame Weekend.

December 8 we were at Rosie's Tavern and 701 and December 9 we were hitting up Shooters to finish out the Everlasting Flame weekend.

All the money raised that weekend will help us purchase gift cards to give to the residents at Caracole House.

December 14 we are back at Shooters for the Big Bob and Tamika Christmas Show. Showtime 11:30 p.m. and on Saturday December 15 we will be traveling around the city visiting all our favorite bars and bartenders. To finish out the weekend – on Sunday December 16 we will be at The Cabaret to host our Ugly Sweater Game Show.

Finally on Saturday December 22 Shanice McCoy Patton will be putting on her Christmas Show at C&D Lounge. Come out and see if she is going to be naughty or nice!

On December 31 we are going to be at Shooters and Old Street passing out champagne to all our friends and loved ones so stop in and give someone that special kiss!

The ISQCCBE wants to wish everyone a safe and HAPPY Holiday season. If during your holiday giving you want to donate some extra cash to one of our local charities, please visit our website and make a donation. Our community needs YOU!!

Paul Delph

This publication is dedicated to those who have or have died from AIDS or Hate Crimes

It is our goal to record the positive contributions GLBT people make to their community and the local community at large. While AIDS and Hate CRIMES are certainly not positive things, we seek to draw the positive from the negative. We hold up Paul Delph and Matthew Shepard and their families as models of how human beings should or could react to each other and how families should support loved ones whose lives are not in the box right wing religious zealots want them in. Delph, a multi-talented Cincinnati, died of AIDS in 1996. His mother shut down her business to care for him. Shepard died in 1998, victim of a hate Crime and his mother worked for years to get passed a national Hate Crimes Bill, which is now law.

PFLAG wants its friends and families to have a happy holiday

It's the holiday season and we at PFLAG are always looking to make sure our friends and families are safe and happy. The following are tips to help you make it through the holiday season when you are visiting family.

If you are Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual or Transgender.... Do not assume you know how someone will react to news of your sexual orientation or gender identity.

Realize that your families reaction to you may not be because you are LGBT but simply because of the stress of the holiday season.

Remember that coming out is a continuous process - you will come out many times in many different situations.

Remember your parents need to time to acknowledge that they have a LGBT child. It took you time to come to terms and now it is your families turn.

Let your families judgements be theirs to work on as long as they are kind to you.

If it is too difficult to attend a family gathering then make your own special holiday with friends and loved ones.

If you are trans-gender be gentle with your families pronoun slips. Let them know you know how difficult it is.

If you are the friends or family member of someone who is Gay.... Set up support for yourself. You are not alone. Have a resource such as a local PFLAG Chapter to call on.

Take your time! Acceptance may not come instantly but be honest about your feelings.

Don't be nervous about using the correct Again it

Post-Gay?

I've been drifting away a bit. It might be the steady boyfriend, it might be the development of other interests. But I think most of all, it's a distance. I'm removed.

I first got involved in the Gay Community right out of high school. I wasn't bullied. OK, maybe I was, but I never would have called it that at the time. It didn't bother me. Never did. My conflict in high school was all in my head.

It was me every day working up more and more nerve to be myself. I was afraid.

Not really of what people would say, but of who I was becoming. I was changing radically. I see it now in milestones; friends and clothes and interests coming and going, each a different phase of my ever-changing self. I was coming out in so many ways, and that scared me. Every single day was a struggle to be a little more of whatever I was feeling. Sex and gender were a huge part of it. How 'Gay' am I? How tight can these pants get before I'm self-conscious of my body and why the hell should I be self-conscious anyway?

Nate

By Nate Wessel

These and the like were daily internal struggles just a few years ago. Lately they're just gone. I'm out, totally and fully. I'm living the dream!

If I want to wear something or say something, there's nothing and no one stopping me like there was before. There's not an internal conflict, and so there's not that burning itch to improve myself, to get over the issue myself and to drag society along with me. I can't fight the oppressive power when there isn't one.

But maybe it's not a permanent drift. Maybe I'll fall back. The child pulls away from family as he goes off to college, anxious to get away, but eventually goes back to those ultimately loving arms with the benefit of perspective, with a deeper love and understanding.

I'll come back. I must. Right? They say that when you no longer need PFLAG is when PFLAG needs you.

Give me a call, metaphorical PFLAG. I need to know I'm needed.

Anti-Gay bill heads for passage

Tony Perkins has praised Uganda's president for "leading his nation" with the "Kill The Gays" bill, and called Uganda "a modern example of a nation prospered by God."

American liberals are upset that Ugandan President is leading his nation in repentance—afraid of a modern example of a nation prospered by God?

Uganda has taken up its infamous Kill The Gays bill again, despite warnings from the international community, and despite likely withholding of foreign aid by some nations, including Great Britain.

President Obama and Secretary of State Clinton have yet to weigh in on this latest round.

Some are claiming the death penalty has been removed from the Kill The Gays bill, but this is the third time the mainstream media has reported this "fact" in as many years. In other words, claiming the death penalty has been removed is a regular tactic for Uganda's politicians.

The mainstream media has never ever reported that the death penalty has been added back in, yet they have no problem repeatedly reporting that it has again been removed.

Perkins is the head of the Southern Poverty Law Center-verified anti-Gay hate group, Family Research Council.

This summer, Perkins used the shooting at his Washington, D.C. headquarters, where a security guard was shot in the arm, to claim victim status.

GLBT entertainment*

As the countdown approaches to the year's end, it's time to remember the GLBT highlights in films, television, theater and music with the free "2012 GLBT Showbiz Quiz," compiled by entertainment journalist and author Ed Karvoski Jr.

During which 2012 award ceremony did J.C. Penney commercials debut with Ellen DeGeneres as spokesperson? What song did Ricky Martin sing as guest star on an episode of the third season of "Glee"? On which television program did President Barack Obama first publicly express his support for same-sex marriage?

The 20-question quiz with multiple-choice answers is available online. Test your trivia skill now or save the quiz for a New Year's Eve party game. It's posted at EdKarvoskiJr-Author.com

Karvoski is the author of five books including two released in e-book in 2012: "Award-Winning Men" and "The Movie Queen Quiz Book."

A hard person...

Is good to find, says the Goose – but any person, anyone who works is even better!

Poppa Bear Cares (Rusty Locket) the sovereign leader of the Center promised me those 32 new extra chairs for the GLBT Center would be shrunk wrap! Alas.

The given delivery window was 8 a.m. – 5 pm. – “oh my Goose just can’t do 8 a.m....who can I assign that task to?” Then it struck me, our part-time super of the local Hoffner Park (adjacent to the Center) and current president of the Northside – College Hill Kiwanis Club.

Bless Ron – he lives a few doors up from the Center – and is an early riser – 6 am. Ron signed up for the early slot until Goose could stretch her wings. By the time I arrived at the Center – 9:30 a.m. – Ron was there – no phone call from the delivery folks – and after the elixir of life – a cup of coffee or three – Ron left to his appointed chores.

My daughter Matt Goedde (red Matt) and friend “Crimy” aka August Garofoli landed at the Center before noon – they had some business in the area to attend. Of course, the straight boy delivery boy appears with these huge boxes of

Goose Mother Says

By Michael Chanak

wrapped chairs requiring partial assembly. Each of the seven boxes contained four chairs, plus we were shorted a box. I tried to enlist my younger friends into service of the Goose – to get the boxes open – but alas, not much was accomplished in 20 minutes by the time they left. Goose was weary and I went home and took a nap. It was all too much, but I did send a text to the volunteer queen, Hannah Smith – “gurl, good luck tonight – there is no space.”

Back to the Center by 5:30 p.m., Goose refreshed, I find two men near the entrance of our Center. I immediately recognize one of them, Gilbert Parker – a lovely straight man, mid 40s that uses the computers sometimes standing with his buddy. Seems the buddy thought I was the “police” - which is sort of funny – because I don’t know many people in Cincinnati that wear a sunbonnet and are packin’. But, I said to Gilbert - “I need a man to meet my needs.” And he spoke the magic words - “I can help.” Within minutes, he and Hannah Smith, who appeared – began three hours of non-stop work of assembly. I was thankful and my OCD was under control for the moment.

The last box of chairs I waited for the next day has yet to arrive. But, if any luck at all, whenever they show up – Goose will have help!

Happy Holidays in whatever way you celebrate it! Before I forget, many thanks to the GLBT News that throughout the year has helped me personally and the GLBT Center of Cincinnati by promoting various events for us! Also, to the old timers who read my columns – you make a gurl blush.
